

NEILL OF ARKANSAS.

Another U. S. Congressman Indorses Paine's Celery Compound.

Within the past year, among the thousands of hearty testimonials to the wonderful curative powers of Paine's celery compound that have been received by Wells, Richardson & Company—among the thousands of grateful letters received from every state and town in the country, there have come no less than six hearty endorsements from members of the national house of representatives.

All were willing that their experience should be published, believing rightly that they might thus do good to others. In these columns have already been published the letters received from Congressman Meredith, Bell, Grout and Powers.

Now comes a letter from Congressman Robert Neill of Arkansas, as follows:

"My home is at Batesville, Ark. During the last spring and summer my eldest daughter, then 17 years of age, was in very poor health, suffering from general debility, nervous prostration and frequent slight fevers. She had the best medical attention, but apparently with little benefit. In the latter part of September last, while still feeble, she began the use of Paine's celery compound, and improved in health continuously. In three months she had fully recovered, and is now in perfect health. I am bound to think the remedy is an excellent one, and do not hesitate to recommend it to the suffering.

To postpone at such a vital time as this regulating the nerves and purifying the blood is a serious mistake. Men and women distressed by nervous troubles or the effects of impure blood cannot afford now to lose a day before taking advantage of Paine's celery compound.

In order to avoid disappointment accept nothing but Paine's celery compound. A clerk who tries to sell something else than what people ask for is evidently not disinterested. He has an eye to profits more than to the good of customers.

There can be no substitute for Paine's celery compound.

This has been shown time and time again in cases where persons, too easily led, have carried home something besides Paine's celery compound, and have failed to get the decided benefit they had hoped for.

The strongest endorsement ever received for this great spring remedy—and no remedy ever compared with Paine's celery compound in the character and the number of witnesses to its efficiency—the strongest endorsement it ever received did not overestimate or exaggerate in the least its unrivaled power of making people well.

Literary Notes.

A reminiscent article on Jenny Lind and her home life has been prepared by her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Maude, for publication in the May Ladies' Home Journal. It is said to be filled with interesting memories of the famous singer, and is noteworthy also as being the first view we have of her through the eyes of her adoring daughter. Mrs. Maude brings to light the fact that Jenny Lind was always nervous and overstrung before events—just before singing in a new opera or oratorio, but was quite calm when the very moment of action arrived.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents and $1.00 per bottle at Flint Bros' Drug Store.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Kepine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chit," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experienced with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottle free at Flint Brothers' Drug Store.

Women and Insurance.

Only about eight or nine of the life insurance companies of the country insure women at the same rates as men. A considerably larger number insure women, but charge them an additional $5 per $1,000, and still more even do not insure women at all. It is the opinion of those qualified to speak that the companies charging the excess rate are not justified in doing so and that the practice will not long be continued. The mortality rate experienced among its women insured by one well known company has been about 80 per cent of what was expected, and it has insured several women for the full amount it will issue on any one life—that is, $50,000. The heretofore unfavorable attitude of insurance companies toward women has been due undoubtedly to the fact that few if any women had an insurable interest, but that day has passed. As the avenues of occupations have widened thousands of women today are the sole support of children or parents, and those thus dependent on them need the protection of insurance as much as if the family breadwinner were a man.

Concerning Eggs.

A fresh egg, weighing two ounces, contains about the same amount of nourishment as an ounce of meat and an ounce of bread. It is well supplied with phosphorus as well as sulphur, thus making the egg one of our best natural medicines.

From the earliest records we have in cookery eggs have always been a favorite food. The shepherds of Egypt cooked their eggs without the aid of fire by placing them in a sling and turned it so rapidly that the friction of the air heated them to the exact point required for use.

Scrambled eggs with fish: Take one cupful of cold fish, freed from skin and bones, and break it into small flakes. Make a white sauce with one level tablespoonful of butter, one level tablespoonful of flour and one-half of a cupful of milk. Add the prepared fish, season with salt and pepper, and simmer gently for five minutes. Add four slightly beaten eggs and stir until the mixture is set. Serve on toast.

A boiled egg should be either soft boiled or hard enough for the yolk to crumble to be easily digested. An authority upon egg cooking says that boiled eggs to be at their best should not be boiled at all. It desired hard they should be kept in water just below the boiling point for 20 minutes; for soft eggs, put them in cold water, and when the water reaches the boiling point the egg should be taken out, and it will be found creamy and delicate.

When poaching eggs, to make them into a ball shape, but one egg should be cooked at a time. After the water begins to boil rapidly, stir it around until a small circle is formed in the water, drop the egg into the middle, and the motion of the boiling water will form a circular covering of white around the unbroken yolk.

Many light, easily prepared and appetizing dishes may be made with boiled, baked and poached eggs by the addition of cheese, mushroom, parsley, tomatoes, fish, herbs, sauces and catsups as flavorings, thus transforming them so that one is always receiving an agreeable surprise.

Consomme or any clear soup is frequently served with a nicely poached egg for each plate dropped into the soup after it is in the tureen.

For Eggs a la Peggy Thurston—Place a frying pan over the fire and partly fill it with vinegar. When the vinegar is boiling crack the eggs open and drop their contents into the pan, taking care not to break the yolks. With a fork lightly toss the boiling vinegar over the egg to cook the top; as soon as the white is set take out the eggs with a skimmer and place them upon a dish that can be put in a hot oven. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with a little grated cheese. Place the dish in a hot oven for a few moments, or long enough for the cheese to melt, and serve as soon as they are taken from the oven.

To make egg soup, put one quart of fresh milk, with a part of an onion, over the fire in a double boiler. Blend together one tablespoonful of butter with a scant spoonful of flour; moisten this with a little of the hot milk before stirring it into the boiling milk. Season with salt and cayenne pepper. Let the mixture boil up once and strain into a heated tureen. Meanwhile furnish as many eggs as are needed, place them on top of the soup, and scatter a little chopped parsley over the whole. When serving this soup use great care not to break the eggs.

Spanish Eggs—Put a generous tablespoonful of butter in an earthen pie plate and place it over a moderate fire; add to the butter a teaspoonful of chopped onion, the same amount of chopped parsley, a tablespoonful of chopped green pepper, and salt and pepper. When stirred well together, break in four eggs, one at a time, keeping the yolk whole. When they are cooked upon one side, turn them over carefully so as not to break the yolks, and by the time the last one is turned they should be done. Serve as soon as possible in the dish they are cooked in. Eggs cooked in this way will be found delicious.

Convent Eggs—Boil half a dozen eggs for 10 minutes, then drop them into water to cool. Chop one onion fine and put it in a frying pan with two ounces of butter. Place the pan over the fire and stir until the onion is cooked but not colored; then add two teaspoonfuls of flour and mix well before adding gradually one pint of milk. Season with a teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter as much cayenne pepper. Meanwhile remove the shells from the eggs and cut them in half a dozen slices crosswise; put the eggs into the sauce, and as soon as they are heated through turn the mixture upon a hot platter on which have been placed squares of buttered toast.

The specie room on ocean steamships is usually 16 feet long, 10 feet wide and 8 feet high. It is formed of steel plates a quarter of an inch thick, with a steel door, which has a burglar-proof combination lock.

A Lamp In His Pocket.

Not very many men carry lamps in their pockets, but there is at least one man who does, and that is the lamp-lighter on the elevated road. It is an alcohol lamp, like a section of brass cylinder, five or six inches long and an inch through, and with a slender tube two or three inches long, holding the wick, projecting at one end. The lamp-lighter comes in at the front door of the car with his lamp lighted. With a rapid ease acquired by experience he lights the six lamps, seeming almost not to pause in his progress through the car. If he is in the last car of the train, as he pulls down the chimney over the last lamp he has lighted and turns toward the rear door he blows out his own lamp and drops it in his pocket. His hands are now free. He throws back the door, walks out upon the platform, opens the gate and steps off upon the station platform or down upon the other side, ready to board the next train. A touch of a match will light the alcohol lamp.—New York Sun.

Hadrian's Wall.

Hadrian, in A. D. 120, built a stone wall from Bowness, near Carlisle, on Solway frith, to the river Tyne, near Newcastle. It was 80 miles long and was garrisoned by 10,000 troops. It was from 12 to 20 feet high at various points, 8 feet thick at the top and was provided with a gallery in the rear, which enabled its defenders to take their stand with only head and shoulders visible to the enemy. At every quarter of a mile there was a castle with a garrison of troops. Beacon lights and signals were used, and on an attack, whether by day or by night, the news was at once flashed up and down the wall from sea to sea.

State News.

The verdict in the Marsh-Buzzell murder case recalls the fact that Emeline Lucy Meaker of Waterbury was the last woman sentenced to be hanged in Vermont. The crime of which she was convicted was the murder by poison of little Alice Meaker, in 1880. Lewis Almon Meaker, her son, was also sentenced to be hanged for the same crime, but the legislature of 1882 commuted his sentence to imprisonment in the state prison at Windsor for life, where he died several years ago. Mrs. Meaker was hanged the last Friday in March, 1883.

Preston M. Forbes of Montpelier attempted to commit suicide last week Friday by taking two teaspoonfuls of the fluid extract of belladonna. He was so crazed that it required five men to hold him. He was just recovering from a long siege of typhoid fever and was practically insane.

During a drunken row in Barre last week Sunday, John McPhee was struck in the head with an ax. W. Rogers was arrested on charge of having committed the offence and was placed in jail. It is understood that he claims he struck McPhee in self-defence. Others who participated in the fight will be arrested if found.

Special Agent V. A. Bullard of the customs department at Burlington has seized the horse Robert H., owned by W. H. Temple of Boston, for alleged fraudulent entry in June of last year. The animal was bought at East Halley, Canada, for $1400 and was entered at a valuation of $500. He is now valued at $2000 and has a record of 2.10 1/2.

A petition is being circulated in Barre asking the post office department to establish the free delivery system there. Such a request has been denied once or twice, but the residents of Barre feel that they are justly entitled to free delivery and, in support of their claim, cite the fact that Montpelier, with a much smaller population, has enjoyed the system for several years.

American Valets.

There is a new order of things among the gilded youth of today, and the valet is in demand. This demand has led to the establishment in Boston of a finishing academy for gentlemen's servants. Here the gentleman's gentleman learns all that is necessary for him to know. The first thing that is done to a matriculate is to cut his hair in the approved English fashion and make him clean shaven, or at least reduce his hair appendages to a modest "mutton chop" just forward of his ears. He is then put in livery and made to speak only in an h-less English dialect. The various courses of instruction include training in all the branches of mental work, and when a pupil is sent out into the world he is given a certificate of proficiency in his particular course. One of the features of the course is the daily practice in immobility, which consists in standing for half an hour a day between two upright bars so regulated that they touch the man's toes and breast bone in front and his costals, shoulder blades and hat rim at the back. This gives the requisite wooden rigidity and is practiced by all pupils. Those whose physiques are lacking or too luxuriant are reduced to the proper form by vigorous exercise.—Boston Letter.

My Sandwich Boy

My Sandwich Boy at the late entertainment of the Business Men's Carnival was not what you might call a brilliant success, his memory as well as his eyesight apparently went back on him, but for the edification of the public, I give below the verse composed for the occasion, by myself, which I anticipated he would be able to deliver, but as before mentioned, he did not seem to remember it just "a little bit."

I want but little here below,
But want that little square and straight.
I claim the best insurance, you well know;
Don't take my word, but investigate.

It would afford me great pleasure to prove to any one that there is full as much truth as poetry in this little verse.

A New Point In Insurance.

The ingenuity of some insurance companies in devising ways and means for evading responsibility is equalled by nothing on earth. A claim was recently made against an accident insurance company for indemnity by a physician who had met with an injury in a very peculiar fashion. He had been ill as the result of an accident received some time previous, but was partly recovered. While driving he was seized with a spasm, and great exhaustion overcame him. He stopped his horse and proceeded to administer a hypodermic injection of some powerful stimulant to which he resorted in such emergencies. Just as he was about to insert the needle his horse started. The needle was driven deep into the flesh, inflicting a severe and painful injury. He sued for indemnity, he being disabled for 23 weeks. The judge dismissed the complaint on the ground that the injury was not caused through external violent and accidental means in the intent and purpose of the policy. This decision will strike the average thinking individual as somewhat peculiar. If a mishap due to the sudden starting of a horse is not an accident, it might be interesting to know how the word could be defined.—New York Ledger

Scrofula Eruptions

Little Girl the Victim of Impure Blood—Suffered Intensely Until Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"When three months old, my little daughter had eruptions on her face. I was obliged to keep her hands tied at night and it was necessary to watch her during the day. She would scratch herself whenever she had the chance, until her clothes would be covered with blood. We concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, because I had great faith in it, and after awhile, we could see that she was getting better. People often asked 'How did that child burn her face?' and they said she would certainly be left with scars, but she was not. It is now a year since she was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla and her face is as smooth and white and soft as that of any child." Mrs. WILBUR WELLS, Warren, Conn.
